

1. Policy Statement

Irabina Autism Services (hereafter referred to as Irabina) is required to comply with the Australian Privacy Principles (APP) in the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) and the Health Privacy Principles in the Health Records Act 2001 (Vic).

Irabina is seeking to be an accredited Victorian disability service provider, and is required to comply with the Information Privacy Act 2000 (Vic). It is acknowledged that Irabina is operating across Commonwealth and Victorian privacy principles. As such, Irabina is required to adhere to the Australian Privacy Principles and the Health Privacy Principles (Victorian) in relation to health information.

In situations where a consumer's health information is protected by both Commonwealth and Victorian privacy principles, then Irabina must adhere to the Commonwealth principle as this takes precedence.

The only exemption is where Irabina receives funding from the Victorian Department of Health and Human Services for specific programs as a disability service provider, under the Disability Act 2006 (Vic) (refer to Section 39)¹. For these specific matters only, the Disability Act 2006 (Vic) must be adhered to.

The privacy policy is to be adhered to by all Irabina employees and volunteers.

2. Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to outline how Irabina manages and protects a consumer's personal information to ensure compliance with all Commonwealth and Victorian privacy legislation.

3.2 Australian Privacy Principle 2: Anonymity And Pseudonymity

3.2.1 When a consumer makes an initial inquiry about using Irabina goods and services, employees will give the consumer the opportunity of not identifying themselves, or using a nickname, unless it is unlawful or impracticable to do so, prior to using goods and services.

3.2.2 Once the consumer has commenced service, Irabina requires accurate personal information. However, if a consumer wishes to be identified by using a nickname whilst receiving goods and services, Irabina will give the consumer this opportunity, unless it is unlawful or impractical to do so.

3.3 Australian Privacy Principle 3: Collection Of Solicited Personal And Sensitive Information

3.3.1 Irabina only collects personal and sensitive information that is directly related to the legitimate purposes to enable the consumer use the goods or services they choose. This includes, but is not limited to, a consumer's contact details, date of birth, next of kin information and medical records, and in some instances, limited financial information.

3.3.2 Sometimes, Irabina employees, particularly clinicians, may form the opinion that more information is required about the consumer to ensure service planning and service matching will meet the consumer's expectations. In these circumstances, Irabina employees (clinicians) will discuss this with the consumer in a respectful manner and will seek written consent from the consumer prior to obtaining such information in a lawful and fair way. This will be recorded on the Consent for Disclosure of Use of Information form.

3.3.3 Only in exceptional circumstances can information be collected from a third party, unless the third party has been authorised for disclosure at service commencement such as when a consumer is not competent or unable to provide information required for care provision. In these circumstances it must be considered unreasonable or impracticable to obtain the information or consent from the individual concerned. Irabina employees (clinicians) should discuss this with the Clinical Services Manager prior to implementing third party information collection and must provide a written file note attached to the consumer's file.

- 3.3.4 Irabina also collects personal information about employees during their employment. The personal information which may be collected includes: name, date of birth, residency status, gender, tax file number, banking details, superannuation details, qualifications, recruitment documentation e.g. referee reports, training attended, performance management framework, and other information.

3.4 Australian Privacy Principle 4: Dealing with unsolicited personal information

- 3.4.1 On occasions, Irabina employees may receive information about a consumer from an unauthorised third party. When this occurs, Irabina will decide, within 14 calendar days, whether the information could have been obtained under APP 3. If Irabina forms the view that it could not, then the unsolicited personal information will be destroyed or the information de-identified.

- 3.4.2 Where unsolicited personal information would normally be destroyed under Section 4.4.1, Irabina will not destroy and/or de-identify such information if it is considered there is a serious threat to health and safety of the consumer or a member of the public or if the destruction or de-identification would contravene Australian law.

3.5 Australian Privacy Principle 5: Notification of the collection of personal information

- 3.5.1 Irabina will take reasonable steps to ensure that the consumer from whom the information is being obtained is aware of:

3.6.2 When such personal information is disclosed, a written file note must be attached to the consumer's file outlining the information disclosed and the reasons for disclosure.

3.7 Australian Privacy Principle 7: Direct Marketing

3.7.1 Irabina will not use or disclose personal information for the purposes of direct marketing, including providing and/or selling consumer information to third parties unless the consumer has provided written consent for 'opting in' for this specific purpose or it is an obligation within the terms and conditions of a service contract that Irabina has entered into.

3.7.2 Where a consumer has consented to 'opt in', the consumer can request to 'opt out' of participating in any direct marketing at any time a consumer is using or participating in goods and services provided by Irabina.

3.8 Australian Privacy Principle 8: Cross-border disclosure of personal information

3.8.1 Irabina will not disclose personal information about a consumer to an overseas recipient unless:

3.8.1.1 The consumer has consented to the disclosure.

3.8.1.2 The recipient has made a written commitment to adhere to the Australian Privacy principles and there is no reason to doubt the commitment.

3.10 Australian Privacy Principle 10: Quality Of Personal Information

3.10.1 Irabina employees will take all reasonable measures to ensure that the information received about the consumer that is held is up to date. - 3.11.3 Hard copy personal information will be stored securely and remain accessible only to Irabina employees.
- 3.11.4 Where Irabina no longer needs the personal information for any purpose for which the information may be used or disclosed, it will take all reasonable steps to destroy or ensure that it is de-identified unless the personal information is part of a State or Commonwealth record, or Irabina is required by or under State or Commonwealth legislation, or a court/tribunal order, to retain the information.

3.12 Australian Privacy Principle 12: Access To Personal Information

3.12.1 If Irabina holds personal information about a consumer, Irabina will, on request (whether that be verbal or written) by the consumer, give the consumer access to the information within 30 calendar days unless Irabina is authorised to refuse access by Section 4.12.2 as it relates to a specific State or Commonwealth legislation.

3.12.2 Irabina may refuse access to a consumer based on any of the following:

- giving access would pose a serious threat to life, health or safety of any individual or to public health or public safety;
- giving access would have an unreasonable impact on the privacy of other individuals;
- the request for access is frivolous or vexatious;

- giving access would be likely to prejudice an enforcement related activity conducted by, or on behalf of, an enforcement body; or
- giving access would reveal evaluative information in connection with a commercial sensitive decision-making process.

3.12.3 The consumer will provide the request to the senior staff member at the site normally accessed.
